Bill of Rights

First Amendment
Forbids the Congress from interfering with freedom of religion, speech or press, or with the right to assemble peaceably, or to petition the government.

Second Amendment
Guarantees the right to bear arms.

Third Amendment
Assures that soldiers can not be arbitrarily lodged in private homes without the consent of the owner.

Fourth Amendment
Forbids unreasonable search or seizure or persons, homes, and effects without a warrant.

Fifth Amendment
Guarantees specific rights when on trial, including no condemnation without trial, no compulsion to be a witness against oneself, and no property taken for public use except with just compensation.

Sixth Amendment
Assures the accused right to a speedy and public trial, right to be represented by an attorney, and right to be faced by accusing witness.

Seventh Amendment
In lawsuits of more than $20, a trial by jury may be requested.

Eighth Amendment
Forbids excessive fines and cruel or unusual punishments.

Ninth Amendment
Just because a right is not mentioned in the Constitution does not mean that the people are not entitled to it.

Tenth Amendment
Powers not delegated to the Federal Government are nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.
